Dear Eschatological Agents:

I will get right to my point as we all know that we only have a limited time here on earth and that leaves precious little time for long winded introductions.

I am looking to pre-plan my final burial and funeral/memorial ceremony. I have a few specific needs which must be met, but I am fairly flexible on the other details that are not specifically spelled out below. Please let me know if you can or cannot accommodate my requests. If you cannot, I will need to immediately undertake a new search for another undertaker.

Do you have a cemetery of your own where you have plots available? I am unable to be buried in my hometown cemetery due to my special needs detailed below. I want to be buried in a scaled down replica of an Egyptian pyramid, complete with my very own labyrinth maze. There should be a treasure room, but I will not have real gold or jewels there because I do not want any grave robbers to disturb my final resting place. I will; however, have near lethal booby traps just in case any treasure hunters get any crazy ideas. By near lethal, I simply mean that the levels of poison in the booby traps will not be concentrated enough to kill a person of average body size and weight. I will sign any documents or waivers necessary to indemnify your company from any liability due to would be grave robbers, but rest assured that I intend to have "Beware of Booby Traps" signs posted on and around my pyramid.

Rather than a standard pine box or casket, do you have sarcophagus options? I would like to be buried in a six and one half foot tall gold sarcophagus with the vaguely resembling likeness of Leslie Nielsen carved into the front of it. But it should look like the Leslie Nielsen of Police Squad fame as opposed to the Leslie Nielsen of the Naked Gun movies. My final approval of the sarcophagus face design is required before anyone is commissioned to actually carve and paint the sarcophagus. (Believe it or not, this was the only sticking point that the last funeral director I interviewed failed to commit to. They didn't want to wait for my approval of the Leslie Nielsen look alike renderings, so I promptly dismissed them and their services).

I will also have my pet cat mummified and buried with me. She should have fake amethysts placed into her eye sockets on the outside of the mummy wrapping. It is essential that she be entombed with me at the time of my own burial, but I don not wish that either of us be buried alive. So if I happen to die before she does, I DO NOT WISH TO BE BURIED IN MY FINAL RESTING PYRAMID UNTIL AFTER MY OWN CAT DIES A NATURAL DEATH.

This is very important. I do not want a situation where my cat is euthanized just so that she can be mummified and buried with me. If she takes another five years to pass on, then my funeral and burial will have to wait. I know how the humane societies can be and sometimes try to jump the gun on killing cats so that they can be mummified right away and I WILL NOT STAND FOR THIS!!!

On the other hand, if my cat dies before me, she can be mummified right away, but she will not be placed in the pyramid tomb until after I die also. Just like above, I don't want a situation where my family or friends see that the cat has died and think that they can just knock me off and divide up my fortune right then and there and then try to pass that off as part of my last wishes. (I do not yet have a signed Last Will designating these instructions, but I will take care of that once I have secured a fully compliant pre-planned funeral. I will provide you with a copy of the will for your records once it is executed. I also intend to incorporate any pre-planning contract into my Last Will document).

I really have no specific requests for my funeral/memorial ceremony other than that the room must be decorated like a Tiki bar with a New York Football Giants helmet placed somewhere in the room and Don Ho background music playing through the sound system.

None of the local funeral homes in my town could accommodate these requests to my liking. Like I mentioned above, there was the one who met all my requirements except the sarcophagus design clearance prior to construction, but that was a place in Houma, Louisiana. When I saw the ad for your funeral home online, I saw your commitment to work with grieving families for their loved one's final memorial. This spoke volumes to me and I wish to retain your services if you can meet all of my needs.

Please let me know if you can pre-plan my funeral and burial and provide me with an estimate of your fee. Please include all costs in your estimate (even if they are estimates) as I do not want to be surprised with any hidden fees at a later date.

Sincerely,

Rusty Lucas

p.s. Do you have any free baseball caps with your funeral home advertising on them? I would like to promote your funeral home for others who are contemplating the pre-planning process. While I do not wish to be buried with your baseball cap on my head, I would very much like to wear it everywhere else until that time. Please send a free Healey Funeral Home baseball cap and I will send back a photo of me wearing it, suitable for publishing in your company newsletter.
